No one doubts, and the Naspolitans less than any one cles, that the troops which had been here must be first reorganized before they can be led spain into action. As for the officers, there is no search that most of tham have so heart in the fight. That horisble "Italian idea" has made ravages among them worse than any epideraic could do. Against the Siellians the feeling of averaion is still strong, but as for Garibaldi and his men, wherever there is contact with them, it has more the appearance of friendly intercourse between companions in arms than adversaries. Only the other duy I saw one of our red stirts eliting on the parapet of the citade, and having a long conversation with some of the officers who came up. The name, the prestige, and the brilliant leadership of Garibaldi have a great deal to do with this change. They had been taught to consider him as a reprobate and fillibuster, and found him the most noble-minded and chivairous of mentresing them rather as misled friends than enusies, instead of this ing advantage of their laters, he did all in his power to relieve it. His brilliant advance has impressed them with its brilliant where has impressed than any leaves the language of their own worn-our relief, they saw him only anxious to avoid every thing which could but their feelings.

All this taken together has done more to open out their minds and feelings than any lectures of Italian tuity. They begin to unless and—to light for the feedom and inde-

MEROUS SOLDIERS.-A private letter from Messina, published in the London Morning Post, contains the following:

Post, contains the following:

On Thursday, the 7th, we beheld, arriving from Catacla, the entire garrison of Catania, as well as the moreable column, united with the same—in all five thousand or six thousand men, of every kind, commanded by Tomaso Clary. These troops had been attacked in Catania by the people, and, after several days of constant firing, some four or five fundared of the royal soldiers were killed, while the loss of the insurprents was comparatively insignificant. The soldiers themselves say that one of the naus, from the window of her cell, killed more soldiers that I could venture to state. She shot with as sure an aim as the most practiced Alphae huntman, and never missed once. The Colonel ordered that they should fire in platoons repeatedly against the windows, but in vais. The heroide remained unscathed, and still kept firing away, killing her man with every shot she fired.

PRINCE JEROME'S RESEMBLANCE TO NAPOLEON.—Prince Jerome's death took place on his own country seat, a few miles from Paris. The London Times, speaking of his personal resemblance to the First Napoleon, says. This physical advantage has been cultivated and studiously displayed on more than one public occasion. At the marriage of the Emperor the ex-King was carefully made up after the portraits of the Eirat Napoleon, the well-known hat and gray cost reproducing the figure so familiar to the public eye.

Disraell gave an elegant breakfast to a brilliant circle." The dazzling occasion was the review of the Volunteer Corps by the Queen, and when the brilliant circle had circumserfeed the elegant breakfast table, it went up to the roof of the hense, "the top of the mandon," as the Hersila daintily says, where galleries had been erected for the accommodation of those who wished to see the show.

The Place for Taying the New Reflet Cannon.—The Government has selected Watch Hill for trying the success of new riflet cannon. Five miles of continuous beach, found nowhere else in New England, decided the locality. The experiments are conducted at the expense of the Government, under oversight of the distinguished inventor, General James, who is said to have $200,000 planked" the moment success crowns his elements. General James, who is said to have $220,000 'planked" the moment success crowns his efforts. They bed one trial, sending a ball two and a half miles, half of the intended distance. On the 16th of the ensuing mouth another test is to be made. They will then try the largest cannon, whose ball coats $50. No fears are felt in regard to entire success. Watch Hill is situated about six miles from Westerly. General Winfield Scott is to lead hill presence at the next trial.

SUIT AGAINST THE GREAT EASTERS BRIAGE OF CONTRACT —It is said that the directors of this unfortunate versel are to be used by the Grand Trunk Railroad Company, for breach of contract. The agreement to sued by the Grand Trunk Railroad Company, for breach of contract. The agreement to bring the ship to the eastern terminus of the Grand Trunk was specific. On the faith of it the railway company made a large outlay for harbor accommodation at Portland, Me. The Council of that city also expended $80,000, and an immense amount of capital was invested by private citizens. The newspapers of Canada and Fortland arge on the railway company, and it was therefore advisable for the directors of the steamship to reduce the fec of admission to the atcamer, to enable them to raise funds sufficient to meet the expenses of a law-suit.

AN IMPOORNY SLAVE Most Caughty Wair-pen.—A Texas paper says that a man named Lankford, in Coryell County, recently whip-ped a negro slave girl "from sunrise til-ing money, but afterward found the treasure where he had laid it, and then, with his antural incontinence of memory, had forgot-ten the occurrence. The man who furnished the information said that "she was the most inhumanly whipped creature he ever raw, neither hove nor ox excepted."

BARON ROTHSCHILD .- Baron Rothschild, of Naplea, has just arrived in Paris. It is said he will not return to Italy again. It sppcar-to be his intention to retire to a magnificent mansion he purchased four years ago on the banks of the Lake of Geneva, foreseeing a the time the present convulsed state of Italy He has caused works to be executed there or t grand scale, and which are not yet com-pleted. M. de Rothschild is said to enter-cain very gloomy views of the actual situa-tion of the Neapolitan Kingdom.

A SPLENDID TELESCOPE .- A new equatoris A SPLENDIO TELESCOPE.—A new equatorial selescope has been mounted at the Royal Observatory, Greenwich, under the direction of the Astronomer Royal, Prof. Airy. It surpuses in magnitude any other ins rument of the kind in England or France, and is nearly on a par with the celebrated instrument at Pulkowa, the principal Observatory in Russia. The size of the object-glass is nearly thirteen inches, and the length of the telescope fifteen feet.

Barnum's, the Gilmor, the Eutuw, the Maitby, the Fountain, and in fact all others—did quite a profitable business. Barnum took over $35,000 gross receipts; the Eutuw, probably $20,000; the Gilmor and Guy's, about $15,000; others in proportion. It is supposed the Gonvention left half a million of dollars in Baltimore.

ULTRA ABOLITIONISTS IN THE SOUTH.—An organized band of Abolitionists is said to exist in the corner of Clark and Wayne, or Mississippi, and Chectaw and Washington, of Alabama, who are delying the people and the authorities. Cousiderable excitement had been created in Quitman, Miss., and other contiguous localities, and the citizensthereof were preparing to adopt the means required to abate the nulsance.

A Man Munders his Wife and Commits Suicide.—Richard Madden, residing near Fort Littleton, Penn., the other evening killed his wife, by beating her brains out with a board, and afterward hung himself. No cause is assigned for the violent conduct of the bushand, the family having just finished their supper, with no indication of the terrible calamity about to befall them.

ILLUSTRATED JOTRNALS IN PARIS.—There are in Paris no less than forty illustrated weekly papers. Of these, twenty-one are sold at two cents each, and nineteen for one cent a copy. Their aggregate weekly sale is a near one million copies; and the Journal du Dimanche, one of the mest prosperous, is said to clear its proprietor about $28,000 per asnum.

Strettlas Sorr of Instruction.—A bovy of children were telling their father what they got at sobool. The eldest said, "Reading, spelling, and definitions." "And what do you get, my little one?" said the father, to a rosy-cheeked little fellow, who was, at that in 2e, shilly driving a ten-penny nall into the door-panel, "Me! Oh, I gets readin', spellin', and spankins."

OUTERACROUS ATTACK UPON THE HOME OF A CITIERN—ONE OF THE MOR SHOT DEAD.—A man named Burlison, having a Newy hinge family and very little to feed them with, lived a short distance from Oxford. N. T. It was reported that he kept a house of 16-fame; and some young mea of the mrightsorhood concluded to pull down the house, Accordingly, three of them proceeded to do a during the aight. They binchead their faces and otherwise disguised themselves, entered the house in the night, carried axes and crow bars with them, and proceeded to cut and pry off the You. While thus engaged, Burlison fixed into the party and killed one of them—for which he has been sent to jair as murdorer. A key days afterward a party of fourteen pulled down the house.

GREAT COMMEMORATION DAY AT OXNOMO. The 20th uit, was the great day of the "Commonoration" at Oxford, England. In the theater the inder-graduates indulged themselves, as usual, in groaning and cheering various persons and thiogs. Three groams followed the names of the Pape, the King of Nucles, the Emperor, Lord John Ressell. The Present Ministry raised a long and close struggle between cheers and groans, as also did the "Bishop of London," and "The Times newspaper." At cleves a clock the procession entered the theater. The Fringe of Wales, by wirtue of his rank, took precedence, being followed by the Vice-Chimicelor. Lord Brougham was received with treat applicates, which he acknowledged by repeated how. Sir F. McClintock was evidently the hero of the day, and a tempest of applicate greeted him. GREAT COMMEMORATION DAY AT OXPONE

THE CATACOMES OF ROME-THUR HORBOR AND DESCLATION -- A recent visitor to the atacombs near Rome details his descent into ne of them-that of St. Sebastian-and says: one of them—that of St. Sebastian—and says. To give some idea of the vast number deposited in this city of the dead, it has been reckoned there are anward of 175,000 bodies in the crypts of St. Sebastian only. The atmosphere is close and stiffing, and smelling fearth. Not a living thing, not an insect, not even a spider, is found therein. It is, in very sense, the abode of death. Many stores have been releted and I can readily believe them, of persons who have ventured into these passages without proper guides, and who have been hopelessly lost!

Visonous Recaultine in this Country. Recruiting is vigorously carried on at all the army stations at present, notwithstanding the efficient condition of the several regiments. In 1859, for the first time in twelve years, the "regulation number" of soldiers was registered on the books of the Secretary of War. Just now the mounted service is getting more men than the infantry. It will carrely be credited, yet it is nevertheless a fact, that of tasmiy thousand persons who upplied for enliatment last year, only eighteen hundred were physically qualified for admission.

dave of Smyth County, Va., was killed while attempting to stop the westward-bound train on the Virginia and Tennessee Road. Some ties had been placed across the road about ten miles above town, and the negro having liscovered them, procured a chunk of fire, it leing very dark, to give the alarm. He took his stand upon the track, and as the train approached waved the chunk of five as a signal; the engineer saw the light, but could not reverse the engine in time to prevent his leath.

Marriage Regarded as Criminal in Alamana.—Professor F. Lawrence Hale, a lecturer on Electro-Biology, has been forcibly ejected from the city of Salem, Ala., and pubished in the papers of that city as an impostor and a scoundrel. The Professor repreented himself as a bachelor, but the papers nunted up and published the following:

"The Greenbrier (Va.) Era says that Mrs.
Jane Hale, wife of Professor F. L. Hale, the ecturer on Electro-Biology, and daughter of Col. Stockton, of Fayette County, Va., is suing for a divorce from her husband."

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY BY A FRENCH SAILOR A foreman in the Toulon (France) Dock-yard has just made a discovery which is anticipated to become of the greatest value to nautical science. It is that of a means whereby the transmission of signals at sea may be carried without limit of words or sentences, and with no more complicated machinery than four poles and two balls, which, by their endless hange of position, are made to convey every order, or warning, or inquiry in usual requisition at sea. uisition at sea.

A Coarty Work is California.—The funnel of the Nebrasia Trionel Company, at Alleghanytown, Bierra Coarty, Odlifornia, and been carried nearly two thousand feet through solid rock, at a cost of over forty-six thousand dollars. The work has been in progress since 1853, and for the last two years has been carried on night and day. At ast accounts they had struck gravel, and had a promise of a rich return for their outlay.

Commutation of Shartenen in Canada.—
The sentence of death upon two men who were intely convicted in Oxford, Canada, et violating a woman and covering her with tar and feathers, has been commuted to imprisonment in the Pententiary, one for three and other for five years. This certainly shows great sympathy on the part of the Canada authorities, for the foulest of criminals.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL IN A COLLEGE .- A re-RELIGIOUS REVIVAL IN A COLLEGE.—A re-vival is now in progress in Hampden Sidney College, Virginia, and more than twenty of the sindents are already said to have been converted. Some of the most eminent men in the Presbyterian Churcis have graduated at this institution, to whom this renswed assurance of its spiritual presperity will, no doubt, be grateful intelligence.
